STARRING The voices of Jerry Seinfeld, Renée Zellweger, Chris Rock
Since his eponymous sitcom went off the air in 1998, Seinfeld has spent most of his time away from Hollywood, living in Manhattan and traveling around the country doing stand-up comedy. For the past four years he has also been cowriting and producing this computer-animated film about a bee named Barry (Seinfeld) who dreams of life beyond the hive and befriends a florist (Zellweger). What's the secret to playing a bee? "I don't get into character. I just go and do my lines," says Seinfeld, laughing. He can't wait to watch the film with his three kids (daughter Sascha, 6, and sons Julian, 4, and Shepherd, 2). "It's going to be very funny to see the look on their faces," he says. "Maybe they will think I'm really a bee."
Lions for Lambs
OPENS Nov. 9
STARRING Tom Cruise, Meryl Streep, Robert Redford
Cruise plays an ambitious Republican senator in this drama, a tapestry of tales set in Washington, D.C., California and Afghanistan. Redford (who also directs) is a liberal college professor. Streep is a TV journalist who sits down with Cruise.

JERRY SEINFELD
BEE MOVIE
RENÉE ZELLWEGER
SYNOPSIS
From creator Jerry Seinfeld comes "Bee Movie," a comedy that will change everything you thought you knew about bees. Take a close look at the world through the eyes of one bee in particular – Barry B. Benson (Jerry Seinfeld). A recent college graduate, Barry wants more out of life than the inevitable career that awaits him and every other worker in New Hive City – a job at Honex...making honey. Barry jumps at the chance to venture out of the hive, and soon encounters a world beyond his wildest dreams. When Barry inadvertently meets a quirky florist named Vanessa (Renée Zellweger), he breaks one of the cardinal rules of beedom – he talks to her. A friendship soon develops, and Barry gets a guided crash course in the ways of the human race. When he shockingly discovers that anyone can purchase honey right off the grocery store shelf, he realizes that his true calling is to stop this injustice and set the world right by suing the human race for stealing the bees' precious honey.

CUSTOM ANIMATION/GERMANY

The Move Split starts with a channel ID / show ID directly out of the programm – even before the break bumper.

Suddenly there's honey pouring down from the top of the screen.

In addition to that - due to legal restrictions - an editorial banner needs to be intgegrated on the bottom of the screen, which needs to stay there during the entire move split /-spot.

The honey finally has covered the whole screen…

…when suddenly a bee approaches.

The bee starts to wipe the screen,…

…revealing the original Bee-Movie spot…

…which finally fills the whole screen.
